66th Annual House of Delegates
&
Professional Development Day
November 2-3, 2012

EVERY MEMBER COUNTS

EMBASSY SUITES-NORTH
INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA
Greetings Fellow Hygienists,

We have a great weekend planned for this year’s IDHA 66th Annual House of Delegates! Every Member Truly Counts! We hope you all enjoyed the turnout last year, which included innovative CE topics, an engaging Mega Issues Forum, expanded Exhibit Hall, as well as the ever fun HI-PAC Dinner and Auction. At the direction of our HOD last year the format this year is modified as follows: All House business will be conducted on Friday. We have designed a smoother Opening Ceremonies, during which the Awards will be presented. Back by popular demand the Mega Issues Forum, this year to be led by Beth Nicely, RDH, ADHA District V Trustee.

The Fall Professional Development Day on Saturday will provide unique speaker/topics on Autism and Celiac Disease. We hope you will take advantage of a longer lunch break to enjoy more time at the Exhibit Hall. Our committee has worked hard to serve you, answer your requests and make this a memorable year!

Thank you for your support of the Indiana Dental Hygienists’ Association, as we continue to represent and help secure your future as a dental hygienist. Please share IDHA’s mission, goals, accomplishments and conference opportunity with your friends and co-workers. Please remember there is strength in numbers, and every single member counts!

Sincerely,

Stephanie L. Cohen, LDH, BA IDHA Vice President

Karen A. Raposa, RDH, MBA is currently Clinical Education Manager with Hu-Friedy Manufacturing Company. Karen has spent the last several years of her career lecturing to dental professionals on an international level. She is co-editor of the textbook titled “Treating the Dental Patient with a Developmental Disorder” which was released in July 2012 and is currently available at Amazon.com. In addition, her work has been published in both Dr. Esther Wilkins’ textbook titled “Clinical Practice for the Dental Hygienist”, as well as the Dental Clinics of North America “The Special Care Patient” publication.

Karen has held several varied positions during her career in dental hygiene that include private practice, business management, professional relations, marketing, and sales. At the ADA Annual Session in Hawaii in 2009, Karen was awarded the Dimensions of Dental Hygiene’s Professional Achievement Award. This Award recognizes one Corporate Council member each year who through their work, professional involvement, and/or community service, has clearly advanced the profession of dental hygiene. Karen is the First recipient of this award and a commemorative brick has been engraved with her name and placed in the courtyard of the National Museum of Dentistry in Baltimore, Maryland.

"Bridging the Gap: Tips for Treating a Patient with Autism"

Course Description

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention is reporting that 1 in every 110 children today is born with some form of Autism, a disease that affects an individual’s ability to communicate, socialize, and in some cases function independently on a day-to-day basis. Practitioners are finding patients who are challenged with these diseases in their practice on a more routine basis than ever before. The need to better understand these patients and their unique abilities and gifts has never been greater.

This course provides a review of the patient with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) and the reasons why practitioners, from a legal and professional aspect, need to better understand these unique patients. A review of how to properly assess the patient's abilities will be conducted. Techniques for treatment and a review of technology and creativity that might be used will be explored. A comprehensive documented home care regimen that should be provided to caretakers will be discussed. Guidelines will be given for practitioners on how to easily incorporate these special patients into their practice and make their career more rewarding than they ever imagined it could be.
Dr. Michael A. Pezzone, M.D., Ph.D. A.G.A.F. is Adjunct Associate Professor of Pharmacology & Chemical Biology at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, obtained undergraduate degrees in chemistry and biology from Cornell University and combined M.D. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Pittsburgh where he also completed his residency in Internal Medicine and Fellowship in Gastroenterology, Hepatology & Nutrition. While at the University of Pittsburgh, Dr. Pezzone developed a national and international expertise in functional bowel disorders including irritable bowel syndrome and the overlap of chronic pelvic pain disorders and was funded by the NIH for 11 years. He received his Ph.D. studying the brain pathways that are activated by stress and how they affect the immune system. His postgraduate research expertise lies in the study of visceral pain pathways and their sensitization by chemical mediators, some of which are released by immune cells. Dr. Pezzone is a local expert in celiac disease and other allergic and/or inflammatory disorders of the gastrointestinal tract and a regular lecturer for the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine and has been recognized as a Top Doctor in Gastroenterology by Castle Connolly (New York) and The Pittsburgh Magazine.

“Celiac Disease: Systemic and Oral Manifestations, Diagnosis, and Nutritional Management.”

Course Description

What is Celiac Disease? Celiac Disease is an autoimmune disorder that affects approximately one in every 133 people. Celiac Disease is a hereditary condition that damages the lining of the small intestines. The disease does not allow your body to absorb nutrients, vitamins and minerals. Common symptoms of Celiac Disease are bloating, anemia, diarrhea, fatigue, constipation, joint pain, fatigue, mouth sores or cracks in the corners, tooth enamel defect, infertility, itchy skin conditions and irritable bowel.

What causes Celiac Disease? Celiac is caused by eating gluten, a protein that is found in wheat, barley, rye and oats.

At the present time, there are three tests to diagnosis Celiac Disease: blood test, small bowel biopsy and implement a gluten free diet.

Nutritional management of Celiac Disease: what to look for on food labels, what medications may contain gluten and which toothpastes and cosmetics contain gluten.

Course Objectives

- Explain the relationship between Celiac Disease and gluten
- Identify why many people go undiagnosed with Celiac Disease
- Review the oral manifestations the dental/medical team may identify when examining a patient with Celiac Disease
- Cite further research connecting Celiac Disease with other autoimmune diseases
- Provide information on foods/products that contain gluten – many of which you may not be aware contain gluten
